Accelerated growth, global expansions and firmer pricing

Reiterate Rating: BUY | PO: 770.00 TWD | Price: 614.00 TWD

In-line 2Q results

EPS of NT$5.18 was largely in-line with BofA/consensus estimates. Revenue of NT$372bn (+2.7% QoQ, +20% YoY) were slightly ahead while gross margin of 50% were 100bps lower than consensus, mainly due to dilution from higher 5nm sales contribution (up to 18%) and unfavorable exchange rate (50 bps impact). Dol increased by 2 days to 85 days with 5nm wafer prebuild for 2H shipment. We fine tune our earnings estimates post results, and our PO remains unchanged at NT$770. Reiterate Buy.

F/X hits near-term margins; high confidence on growth

3Q21 revenue is expected to increase 11% QoQ at mid-point (vs consensus +10% QoQ) while gross/op margins are expected to be 50.5%/39.5% at the mid-point (vs consensus at 52%/41%). Stronger NTD remains a headwind for margins, but the CEO remains upbeat for 2021 revenue (20%+ YoY) and long term revenue (~15% 5-year CAGR). Management sees capacity to remain tight into 2022 on strong customer demand. Any potential inventory correction that occurs should be milder than previous cycles given the strong secular industry growth, according to management.

Global expansions in focus; firmer pricing ahead

TSMC now appears to be more active in setting up its global footprints. US fab is on track to ramp in 1H24 (5nm at 20k wpm) with potential for phase 2 expansion. In China, further expansion of 28nm capacity in Nanjing is schedule to ramp in 2H22. While the Japan R&D center mainly focus on advanced packaging, TSMC is also considering building a wafer fab for specialty technology. In addition to government incentives to help narrow the cost gap, TSMC will also exercise firmer pricing strategy to ensure proper returns on its global investments.

Company Sector

Semiconductors

Company Description

TSMC was founded in 1987 and is listed in Taiwan (2330TT) and the US (TSM/NYS).TSMC is the largest and undisputed global leader in IC manufacturing. As a build-to-order foundry, it provides a wide-range value-add activities: IC manufacturing, mask-making, IC design services, turn-key solution, and process development. We attribute its success to its proven, winning business model, unparalleled scale advantage, optimized execution, and technology scope and depth. 5 shrs = 1 ADR.

Investment Rationale

The ongoing semi content growth in mobile, rise of artificial intelligence (AI), and proliferation of Internet of Things (IoT) should result in sustainable upside in aggregate computing power globally. TSMC, as the leading contract manufacturer of semiconductor chips, is in a good position to capitalize. We are structurally positive on TSMC and expect it to sustain over 10% growth with rising FCF and dividends in the next three to five years.

Result in-line; HPC remains the bright spot

2Q21 net income NT$134bn (EPS NT$5.18, -4% QoQ, +11% YoY) broadly in-line with BofA/consensus estimates, as stronger revenue largely offsets the slightly lighter gross margin on stronger NTD against USD. According to the company, the stronger revenue can be attributed to sustained demand in high performance computing (HPC) and recovery in automotive market.

On a positive note, we see sub-7nm revenue contribution sustained at ~50% which is similar to 1Q level, with further gain in 5nm despite normally weak iPhone seasonality. Also, revenue contribution from HPC platform reached ~40% in the quarter - a record high in history, likely on ongoing share gain by customers. In the meantime, smartphone and internet-of-things (IoT) were with softer QoQ momentum vs HPC/auto, while consumer electronics delivered the weakest revenue QoQ likely on seasonal softness.

Lighter 3Q guide with stronger 4Q implied

Into 3Q21 the firm guides revenue in the range of US$14.6-14.9bn (+11% QoQ at midpoint), thanks to strength on all fronts including HPC, smartphone, IoT and auto. Gross margin is guided to be in the range of 49.5-51.5% with foreign exchange assumption of NTD/USD 27.9, while operating margin is guided to be 38.5-40.5%. Management further elaborates that 5nm ramp continues to impact overall gross margin, with 200-300bps impact for whole year level. However, it remains confident that gross margin for the node will reach corporate average level after ramping by 7-8 quarters.

Longer term, management reiterates its target of achieving higher end of its 10-15% revenue CAGR range in 2020-25, with at least 50% gross margin and 20+% ROE. Also it updates its perspective on industry growth, now expecting semi ex-memory and foundry to grow  $\sim 17\%/20\%$  (was  $\sim 12\%/16\%$ ) in 2021, while reaffirming that the firm will outgrow the foundry industry in the year. By baking in full year and 3Q guidance, the firm's 4Q revenue is implied to grow by at least low teen % QoQ.

Inventory concern remains manageable

For inventory, TSMC's inventory edged up slightly QoQ mainly on 5nm wafer prebuild, according to management. That said, it still believed that it's in healthy level, while there's chance for customers to increase the inventory level given 1) preparation to combat supply chain turmoil led by COVID-19; and 2) new product launches ahead.

Overall, we find the words from management echoing our findings in the supply chain, as we see 1) a lower inventory borne by fabless and integrated device manufacturer (IDM) by end-1Q21; and 2) now it seems like supply shortage situation is spreading into downstream vendors. Further - we share the firm's view that even if there's inventory correction going forward, the magnitude will be lighter vs previous cycles thanks to structural demand from the likes of 5G/HPC, which is also a reason behind current supply/demand imbalance in semis fabrication.

Long-term AI/HPC industry forces more widely accepted

Capex and capital intensity is not much asked during the call in our view, which may suggests a broader acceptance of its 3-year US$100bn capex plan, signally higher confidence level for the megatrends from the likes of artificial intelligence (AI) application specific integrated circuit (ASIC) and HPC. In our view, the former could be aided by a more completed offering in advanced packaging including system on integrated chips (SoIC), chip on wafer on substrate (CoWoS) and integrated fan-out (InFO), while the latter may benefit TSMC on likely further Intel outsourcing as well as non-Intel share gain (NVDA, AMD, RISC-V).

Elsewhere, we're also seeing further traction into auto (NXP) and networking infrastructure (Marvell's Ethernet PHY/Broadcom's Tomahawk) for 7/5nm. Further on 5nm family, management reiterates its target of generating 20% revenue from 5nm in 2021, while stating that 4nm progress is on track.

Last but not least for 3nm, the company cites that it is on schedule to enter mass production in 2H22, with even higher tape out volume in year 1 vs 5nm. Initially, management expects the ramp to be still led by smartphone customers, while indicating HPC will be an increasingly important growth engine for TSMC into 3nm – to become the biggest growth driver for the company in next 5 years.

Price objective basis & risk

Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co. (TSMWF / TSM)

We value TSMC at NT$770 per share (US$147 per ADR), based on a 30x 4Q21-3Q22E P/E, slightly above its past 10-year trading range (10x-27x), and also slightly above the upcycle of SOX Index. We expect the valuation to be underpinned its stronger industry position especially in leading edge technology, improved earnings quality and subsequently FCF/dividend upside.

Downside risks are: 1) slowing global smartphone demand, and 2) execution risks in advanced nodes.

* Issuers that were investment banking dients of BofA Securities or one of its affiliates within the past 12 months. For purposes of this Investment Rating Distribution, the coverage universe includes only stocks. A stock rated Neutral is included as a Hold, and a stock rated Underperform is included as a Sell.

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's: absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). There are three investment ratings: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

Investment rating Total return expectation (within 12-month period of date of initial rating) Ratings dispersion guidelines for coverage cluster*

 Buy
 ≥ 10%
 ≤ 70%

 Neutral
 ≥ 0%
 ≤ 30%

 Underperform

INCOME RATINGS, indicators of potential cash dividends, are: 7 - same/higher (dividend considered to be secure), 8 - same/lower (dividend not considered to be secure) and 9 - pays no cash dividend. Coverage Cluster is comprised of stocks covered by a single analyst or two or more analysts sharing a common industry, sector, region or other classification(s). A stock's coverage cluster is included in the most recent BofA Global Research report referencing the stock.
